

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of testing a planar lightwave circuit is achieved by coupling an optical probe to the planar lightwave circuit. In one embodiment, a second probe is used in combination with the first probe to test the planar lightwave circuit by 5 sending and receiving a light beam through the planar lightwave circuit.